The General Election Result

Once again the Establishment won.

Labour party leader Tony Blair claims that his landslide victory is the dawn of a new era in British politics.

Broadsword agrees that this is a new era in British politics, but it is far from the dawn of the "Golden era" which Blair and his cabinet claim.

Broadsword predicts that the Blair administration will bring economic, social and political chaos to our country. The soft, left, centre dogma of "New Labour" will try to force feed equality and equal opportunities on the country together with welfare spending the nation cannot afford. The inexperienced and ideologically stagnant Labour government will cause the collapse of our society through their ill conceived policies and the British people will shake their clenched fists at that government in fury.

That is the new era which is dawning - as National Socialists we must take advantage of what lies ahead and be ready to forge a new future.

BRITISH MOVEMENT WHERE WE STAND

The British Movement is a National Socialist organisation and as such is dedicated to the creation of a mono-racial society based on the foundations of Family and Folk, Blood and Soil, Race and Nation.

Britain has sunk into a stagnant ditch as this century closes. What point is there in foreign policy when the government cannot put our own country in order? Why is Britain pumping funds overseas and interfering in other counties when Britain is in a mess?

The political, economical and social chaos which Britain has become can only be resolved by a total break with the existing system, only through National Socialism within a new concept and a new system can future be secured. A National Socialist New Order built on the principles of Race, Nationhood and citizenship of the Folk, understanding the law and applying the law of Race, Blood and Soil.

BRITISH MOVEMENT FORGED FROM STEEL!

WE BELIEVE....

RACE IS ALL: Our folk must again respect their past and strive towards their great destiny. We must instil in all generations an awareness of the importance of Race and purity of blood. Mongrelisation destroys the heritage and stifles all future achievements. Our civilisation is secure only in purity of Race and belief in destiny.

MONEY THE SERVANT: A stable economy is one which reflects the true worth of the community. Money is a mere token of this wealth - a means of exchange to allow convenient trading of goods and services. The modern notion of money controlling the people must be broken and a total change in the financial system is required.

A PART OF NATURE: We must ensure that the beauty and resources of our earth are preserved for the benefit of future generations of our folk. We must not waste or destroy the natural order - the balance of which is so vital for the well being of all life. Our new moral code will not allow scientists, businessmen and politicians alike playing at God in the name of curiosity, monetary gain or profit.

BEYOND CAPITALISM AND COMMUNISM: The ideologies of the old world strive for the total enslavement of all peoples. We are against the materialistic rat-race of lust under Capitalism as well as the monotonous drudgery in the grey bureaucrats of Communism.

EUROPE A FAMILY: The peoples of Europe stem from a common racial root. We must enjoin in spiritual union for the defence of our freedom against common enemies. Our strong Race founded block will scale new heights in all fields for the advancement of our vibrant culture.

THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE: Mankind must continually strive for higher, better life-struggle for a brighter, more noble world. Each day must bring new challenges in the perpetual struggle towards greater civilisation. There can be no perfect world but our folk must strive towards its improvement leaving behind the decay of today's moribund world.

BRITISH MOVEMENT

WHERE THE MOVEMENT IS NOW.

That the BRITISH MOVEMENT (British National Socialist Movement) should have survived and developed in British politics such as it has is an achievement that cannot be ignored by anyone. There has been no shortage of those who forecast doom; no shortage of those who said that the Movement was a tiny, fringe group destined for the political graveyard; no shortage of those who wrongly claimed that the British Movement had been wiped out by the actions of this infiltrator or that coterie of "splitters".

The Movement started out in 1968 with nothing but an idea and grew up to the dizzy, media-fed heights of the early 1980's before it stumbled under the weight of so many burdens only to slowly dust itself off and painstakingly raise itself back onto its feet. In 1984/85 with only the will to survive; the refusal to abandon the ideology and sacrifices of a decade; the grim determination not to strike the Movement's colours, the British Movement stood alone as the only organised body of true National Socialism in Britain.

Now in 1997, despite repeated onslaughts by the forces of the State; by those false prophets and fake "neo-nazi" groupings; by the forces of the organised Marxist-Left and the Zionists; the British Movement is still in the arena and the Sunwheel banner is still flying.

The gathering pace of the Movement's Project 2000 schemes is another milestone the Movement has reached, and credit is due to those who have argued our case in difficult situations, who have plodded the streets in support of this campaign or that campaign, who have fought the enemy on the streets and in the alley ways, motivated not by personal gain but by the courage and determination of their convictions that Britain and the Movement could be Great again.

The Movement has much to congratulate itself on, but realises that the real fight is just beginning. It is not going to be an easy fight but it will be a glorious one. Those who have betrayed our Nation and our Folk are going to fight like cornered rats to hang onto the power and influence they abuse and some of us are going to be bitten by those rats. We expect them to fight and use every dirty trick to maintain their decadent power structure. They know the fate that awaits them when we the National Socialists of the British Movement, have our day of reckoning with them ,we will show no pity and no quarter, they do not deserve it.

The Voice of Reason

It is interesting to note that our political enemies, the Communists, also see the next few years as a time of impending political, social and economic chaos, ready to be exploited by organised and revolutionary ideologies. The revolutionary Marxists behind "Red Action" state in their Spring 1997 issue: "with the probable election of a Labour government in the autumn, the radical Left and, we believe, the radical Right, will face new challenges and opportunities. This will be the moment of truth for many on the Left. Some will be found wanting. We will not".

That is how the Communists see the new political climate in Britain, and if they are prepared to take up the challenge, so is the British Movement. The British National Socialist Movement will not be found wanting either.

In the words of Sir Oswald Mosley: "In the lives of great nations comes the moment of decisions, comes the moment of destiny, and this nation again and again in the great hours of its fate has swept aside the little men of talk and of delay, and has decided to follow men and movements who say we go forward to Action!".

As an organisation British Movement might be considered unique on the so-called, "Far-Right" of British politics for a variety of reasons. However, what instantly distinguishes us from the competition is the age range and social strata our members and supporters are overwhelmingly drawn from. Of all classes in society it is the working class in particular, and both skilled and unskilled workers, that are most heavily represented within our ranks, as well as a traditional level of support from the unemployed and old age pensioners. As a direct consequence our Movement tends to suffer unduly from low pay and no pay. The result is that while the political commitment of our members and supporters may be second to none , the financial commitment can never hope to be better than second best.

No fat wallets have ever come our way and it is to the credit of our members and supporters that despite fighting on empty purses, we have been able to survive and restructure without compromising our ideals.

This lack of cash has proved a serious handicap in the past, however slowly our organisation may develop as a result of this disadvantage, the Movement is going forward, but only as fast as the funding will allow.

To enable the Movement to match ambition to future opportunities, we ask our supporters and members to be creative and wide ranging in fund raising ideas and projects.

Donations to BROADSWORD no matter how small are always welcome, but regular fund raising opportunities are what is required. Please give it some thought, and some action!

NATIONAL SOCIALIST THOUGHT FOR THIS ISSUE.

Folkish philosophy serves the basic aristocratic idea of Nature and believes in the validity of this law down to the last individual. It sees not only the different value of the races, but also the different value of individuals. From the man it extracts the importance of the individual personality, and thus in contrast to disorganising Marxism, it has an organising effect. To cultivate the personality and establish it in its rights is one of the prerequisites for discovering the greatness and power of our nationality.

YOUTH BULLETIN
THE VOICE OF YOUTH

Broadsword issue No.10 featured an introduction to the British Movement Youth wing which was well received and generated much discussion amongst readers. National Socialist youth in Britain have now got a means to correspond their ideas and views in a safe and logical way, this page is their voice. Enquiries and design ideas have flooded in to the Movement's E-Mail and postal addresses from those responding to the British Youth Awake page, but it is up to you, the younger supporters to make changes in this country. It is up to you to make British youth wake up to this dismal mess that Britain is now in and force the changes.

We of the Youth wing don't want our activist people to all end up in prison, as this would kill off the true message which we want to portray to the youth of today. We want our hard working youth to cut off every life line that our political enemies have. We have to be vigilant and cautious, non-trusting to anyone outside the BM network and family. Our motto of Faith, Folk, Family, must be lived up to by all. British youth culture is respected right across the world and so must be a shining example in every aspect where we raise our heads. Be we Skinheads, Casuals, Bikers or whatever. Wherever our shield badges are worn, we are together 100 %.

If you look at the "alien" youth cultures in Britain, the media helps them to build up their reputation and projects their image and music. But we know that we are better and can out class them everytime.

So let us show the alien cultures and their Red Mob friends, when Tony Blair said that this is a new day and new dawn for British politics, he was right, BUT, it is OUR new dawn and not his, or theirs! Blair and his party are in for the biggest shock of their lives because for every door they close in our faces, we will smash another one down!

British Youth Awake, we are the voice of tomorrow's revolution!

Ethnic gang torch eight year old boy

An eight year old White boy from Dale Lane estate, Heckmondwike, Yorkshire was walking through a cemetery in the evening with his friend when they were attacked by a gang of Asian youths aged between 16 and 18 years old. The youths sprayed the boy with an inflammable substance and set him alight.

Not content with turning the boy into a human fireball, the Asian youths then threw the boy to the ground and proceeded to kick and beat him. The youths then ran off leaving the boy to suffer.

The police confirmed they were treating it has a racial incident.

Yet should an Asian so much as suffer a scratch from the white community, all hell would break loose in the media.

THE LEGAL CRIMINALS

The SonntagsZeitung, a Swiss newspaper, claims that former East German documents held in the German Federal Archives show that Credit Suisse, Switzerland's second largest Bank, dealt with the SS, and that the SS maintained a secret numbered account, personally dealt with by Himmler, to launder money obtained from gold and jewellery plundered from concentration camp victims.

Whether true or false, for fifty years since the war, Jews have proved themselves to be far from innocent. Like cuckoos they entrench in the nests of the west to grow their numbers and augment their monetary dominance. Their clandestine methods to plunder the true innocent to the point of destitution and call it Capitalism.

It was considered a crime that the Jews were forced out from land that was not theirs. Now they themselves force out a people from a land that again does not belong to the Jews. Germany took back what was theirs. The Jews take what is not theirs, and this is the true crime that they alone feel is justifiable.

Britain has been stolen, its people have been cheated, its system corrupted and its culture and heritage sold. Yet only the few will accept the truth of their inevitable demise. Unless the few become the whole, the whole will become subdued.

Look To The Future

Great Britain, home to the mother of all parliaments and the centre of democratic freedom for all regardless of race, religion, sexual orientation etc. Or is it? Not so, for today we live in a society where those who are of the ethnic minority are given an unfair advantage due to positive discrimination. There is political suppression for patriotic countrymen whose ideas would stamp on the toes of those in power and a taxation system that robs from the poor to give to the rich. Add all this, and more, to a ruling class that is the personification of hypocrisy and you find a nation that is in a sorry state of affairs for one that was once the envy of the world.

Who then is to blame for the situation in which we find ourselves today? Most would say the Government or those with power and influence or the moneymen who hold the reins of our daily lives. But is that really the case? Surely we the people must be directly responsible, for it was we that put these people where they are and only we that can remove them. This, though, can only be done when the blinkers are removed and all of the citizens of this land realise how much they are manipulated by those who claim to act for them.

When it comes to political systems the only one that can alter this state of affairs is National Socialism.

When it comes to political systems the only one that can alter this state of affairs is National Socialism. However most of the population of this country and the world shrink at the sheer name National Socialism and many will actively seek to destroy it. What they do not realise is that they are driven this way by modern Government propaganda and ethnic agitation and also the manipulation of historical events by all those who have the most to lose in any National Socialist revival.

Modern National Socialism is, or at least should be somewhat more evolved than it's 1930's and 40's counterpart. I believe that it is, as I am sure that most of you reading this also believe. Although not straying from the fundamentals that make this system of living the best hope for a utopian society, only learning and evolution of our ideals can combat the distorted way in which history and modern politics paints us.

National Socialism today is condemned by those in power for they know that should they allow it to slip the leash then its popular appeal to the masses will send it on a roller-coaster to power.

Let us now look quickly at a couple of points that show how history has attacked National Socialism. At the end of the second world war the Nuremberg show trials were instigated to show the world that the 'crimes' of National Socialism would not be tolerated. But what of the 'crimes' perpetrated by other countries and political systems? For example let us take Communist Russia. Many stood trial at that time accused of 'the waging of aggressive war'. This can be loosely defined as the unprovoked attack of one country on another. Germany was put in the dock for this but where were the Soviets who launched the offensive against the little country of Finland in the winter of 1939-40? Or who aided in the dismemberment of Poland after stabbing them in the back in 1939? Another accusation against the National Socialists then was one of 'crimes against humanity'. The definition of is roughly the murdering of human beings without Just cause. The so-called persecution of the Jews was the main theme at that time, but surely all events of this nature should have been scrutinised, and so where were the perpetrators of the massacre of Polish Officers, killed and secretly buried whilst that area of Poland was under Soviet occupation? These two instances alone, and there are many more that I could speak of, show quite clearly that it was National Socialism the idea and not the incidents that stood in the dock then and for which we are all still imprisoned today.

As a result of this distortion and others we are left now in a very much compromised position. Should it be that we should attempt, openly, to celebrate any event important to us, what do you think would be the result? Or indeed, how would the situation be reported should the National Socialist Organisations in Britain attempt to run for Parliament or even the local councils? We all know the answer to that one.

Facts like these show quite clearly that freedom of choice and democratic rights are only for those who are supporters of the present system and not for all as they would have us believe. All over Britain all year round there are military and political celebrations of major events, yet from them we are ruled out. It is all sheer hypocrisy. Think about this. As a National Socialist and a peace loving member of the country of Great Britain many barriers would stand in my way to election, yet if I were a member of Sinn Fein, a supporter of terrorism and a condoner of a group of people who will commit murder at any turn, even that of children, then provided that I polled enough votes the doors of the House of Commons would be open to me.

Now let us change tack once more and move on to the subject of the material wealth of our nation and with regards to it what the lawmakers and the power people of this land have done, and are continuing to do to the heartbeat of this nation - its people. Take the average working class man. He works and earns and is taxed. Of his remaining income, that which is spent is taxed and that which is saved also uncurs a tax on the interest. Should he be lucky enough to have a windfall, the chancellor is there again, as indeed he is should the man's savings be inherited upon his death. As well as these and other major taxes there are also countless smaller ones that chip away at his lifestyle. Through it all the government coffers swell to bursting. Now, I have no objection to taxation, it is what is done with it that counts; creation of jobs for all, a sufficiently funded National Health Service, libraries and other public amenities built, correct investment in British industry, reduction of poverty and want in the inner cities, the streets safe, housing for all and the reduction of need for charities are to name but a few of the areas where the nations wealth can be used for the benefit of all. In short a country to be proud of, a model for the people of other lands to follow, a nation that is secure in its own ability to help itself. However, we all know that this is not the case. The money, of course, goes elsewhere. The wealth of this nation, built by the sweat and toil of its populace is squandered and mismanaged. Arguably the biggest waste are those millions given each year to the Royal Family and their associated hangers on. Bad enough on its own merit but when you consider that this woman is already the richest on earth then surely it constitutes a criminal offence or at the least a moral offence against the British people. Another example of waste is the vast number of nations around the globe who are unable to set their own house in order, countenance aggressive dictatorships and squander their own wealth on petty power struggles whilst all the time pleading poverty and helplessness and receiving free hand outs by this Government. All of it paid for out of the pockets of hard working British men and women. Now some will say that they cannot help the situation that they are in as they are over populated and do not have the resources of the west. To answer this I would say look to Japan. She has no natural resources of her own and Tokyo is one of the most crowded cities on earth. Yet she is a member of G7, the world's richest nations. How can Japan do it when others cannot? Simple, the Japanese are a proud race, proud of their heritage and will not demean themselves to others. They are prepared to help themselves when others are not.

Now we have looked at Just a tiny fraction of some of the cancers of society that exist for us, National Socialists today. The big problem for us in this movement is how do we change things for the better and how do we put our point of view forward to the British people?

The National Socialist Movement today is very much underground. Held there, shackled by the chains of a corrupt and greedy society. Surely it is time for this champion of the people to awaken from its slumber, assess its numbers and show itself to those for whom it would cast aside the shadow of suppression. I would suggest that we begin to inject some fresh vitality to our cause and begin the process of putting to the people all that we can do for them. Now is surely the time to consult with the rank and file and start the long haul of coming out into the open. Properly organised we can show ourselves in a new light, modify our ideas and dispel the prejudices that are against us. We can, with commitment and an effort of will re-awaken our countrymen to believe that control of their own destiny is theirs by right. Now is the time to put the Great back into Britain.

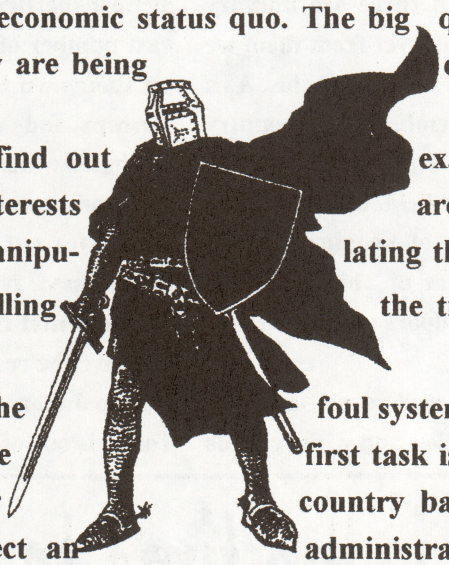
Another General Election result and another "Establishment" administration, interested only in preserving the political and economic status quo. The big question now is will the British people wake up to the fact that they are being conned and sold out and they are digging their own graves as a nation?



Those who take the trouble to find out exactly what is going on in British government circles, who and what interests are being served behind the scenes, and which power blocks are really manipulating the corridors of power, will realise that National Socialists have been telling the truth all along. Ever since the 1930's!

Our greatest task is to pull down the foul system which has taken over our country and our political executive. The first task is to root out treason and corruption at the highest levels and put our country back into the hands of the people who will, if given the chance, elect an administration that puts Britain and the true British people first. That administration is a folkish National Socialist New Order under the leadership, and control of the British Movement.

More Unorthodox Views. by Jeff.

"Beneath the quagmire the worm does turn. The turning of the worm is the emergence of the coffin. The coffin does hold the bones of man. The man of the coffin is the people depressed. Depressed people shall now turn upon the Mafia, better known as the Government of nations."

National governments are Mafia, Mafia looks after its own kind; big business etc, is also Mafia. Government is administrated as Mafia by Mafia, big businesses; the two states go hand in hand. The slave forces are kept happy for the Mafia by intimidation of loss of work. The intimidation bends the people who are the wealth of not only themselves, but also the Mafia. The people do not yet realise that the balance of fear of being unemployed is crucial to sustain the Mafia. Mafia government, Mafia businesses, will use high technology to hold the balance of power which secures their dominant position as dictators of the masses. Unless the masses learn to educate themselves totally differently from the norm they must continue in the morass of depression.

Surely people must realise that technology and its advancements, in reality is not conducive to the masses? It is only conducive to the Mafias; the higher the technology, the less skilled becomes the people.

The continuance of mass produced people is the sustained power of the Mafia. People today are devoid of skills, both manually and intellectually. Skills of the hands as craftsmen are exempt from the people by big businesses. Skilled craftsmen are of no use to top Mafia, they are not beneficial to them. Craftsmen require reward for their art of production. It is cheaper for the Mafia to do away with skilled craftsmen and enhance their own wealth by cheap labour, and hold that cheap labour in the balance by the threat of removal of jobs. To over employ diminishes power and profit.

Mafia sways the people by beguiling and complication of so called education. All aspects in the lives of people are engineered to be complicated, and now, throughout the world, all governmental situations are of vast complexity, and by manipulating complexity, the Mafias are now finding they cannot agree amongst themselves how to hold their own ground of dominance over its own slaves.

The slaves are now awakening. The awakening of the slaves, who are the repressed and depressed, are known as National Socialists. Therefore, to all British people, awake to the realities of the Mafia.

NATIONALISM IN THE PAST

British National Socialism on the Streets. The Campaigns of Colin Jordan & the NATIONAL SOCIALIST MOVEMENT.

Although the NSM only had a short term of life on the British political stage of the 1960's, the organisation certainly made its presence felt. The British media and the political establishment were thrown into convulsions by the high profile activities of Mr. Jordan and his fledgling movement. The hysteria generated by the newspapers and certain sections of the House of Commons, gave the NSM an audience far in excess of what their limited numbers might have achieved through conventional channels.

COTSWOLD CAMP 1962 Colin Jordan meets Lincoln Rockwell.

The NSM - National Socialist Movement was born at the old White Defence League headquarters on Princedale Road in Nottinghill, London. The inaugural gathering was hosted by Colin Jordan on April 20th, 1962, and cemented its intentions to openly champion National Socialism in Britain by a trans-Atlantic telephone to Lincoln Rockwell's HQ of the American Nazi Party to formerly declare the NSM's birth.

In the opening speech, Mr. Jordan declared: "In Britain - Britain of all places - the light which Hitler lit is burning, burning brighter, shining out across the waters, across the mountains, across the frontiers, National Socialism is coming back".

Those were prophetic words indeed. Despite being less than twenty years since the destruction of the Third Reich, National Socialism was returning from the ashes and the NSM hurled out its defiance with a vengeance. The NSM would be as provocative as it was possible to be, fighting under both the Sunwheel banner (which had been the emblem of the earlier WDL) and the swastika, the tiny NSM punched its way into the headlines.

Colin Jordan worked the media like a puppet-master, staging headline grabbing stunts with a handful of dedicated followers and courageous tenacity. Mr. Jordan led from the front and was frequently in the thick of violent counter demonstrations, being attacked by hysterical gangs of Zionists or Communists, totally outnumbered but grabbing masses of publicity. A small group of dedicated activists was formed into a unit called "Spearhead".

The NSM aimed high when it came to staging political demonstrations, the Trafalgar Square rally of July 1st 1962, would go down in the annals of British political disorder as a piece of text book political theatre and violence. The rally was held under the provocative slogan of "Free Britain From Jewish Control". This was a typical tactic by Colin Jordan to draw maximum response and therefore maximum publicity for the NSM message. On Sunday July l st 1 962 the NSM drove a flat back wagon into Trafalgar Square to use as a platform, on the back of the lorry stood a young Martin Webster (later of NF fame) who held aloft a Sunwheel standard bearing the slogan "Britain Awake". The assembled mob of over 2,000 Communist and Zionist demonstrators went beserk. The police fought hand to hand with rioting protestors as the determined band of NSM speakers braved the hail of missiles to shout out their message above the screaming hordes. Martin Webster was attacked on the back of the wagon and his banner ripped from his hands to be smashed and burned by the mob. The police eventually curtailed the rally and escorted the NSM speakers from the Square.

Despite the violence and the media outrage, the NSM proposed to stage a second Trafalgar Square rally on August 19th and announced a summer camp where international NS delegates would be in attendance, including the American NS leader, Lincoln Rockwell.

The response from the extreme-Left and the organised Jewish community was predictable and the uproar was deafening. The Home Office acted on August 2nd, banning any foreign delegates from entering the UK, especially Lincoln Rockwell.

But Colin Jordan was resourceful, he set up his Cotswold Camp in defiance of the tidal wave of opposition and set out to bring in Lincoln Rockwell. Rockwell flew into Southern Ireland and was brought across into the UK by ferry boat, (reputedly escorted by one Mr. J. TyndalI). The NSM taunted the Home Office by releasing a photograph of Rockwell and Colin Jordan shaking hands under a swastika flag at the Cotswold camp.

Unfortunately the Cotswold camp was attacked at midnight by a media-inspired mob, (there just happened to be journalists and photographers from the 'Daily Mirror' present when the mob stormed the row of tents at Guiting Power in Gloucestershire). Despite this battle of fists and boots, Rockwell had attended the camp and the "Cotswold Declaration" had been put on paper, setting out the international agenda for the revival of National Socialism and founding an umbrella organisation, The World Union of National Socialists. (W.U.N.S.)

Lincoln Rockwell was deported shortly afterwards, but much had been achieved by a spirited handful of men and women. The NSM was the focus of both international and national media attention, gaining mass publicity for its message.

The NSM pumped out its literature into the cauldron of race and immigration politics on Britain's streets. Mass coloured immigration into Britain was a political hot-potato and the NSM exploited the situation at every opportunity.

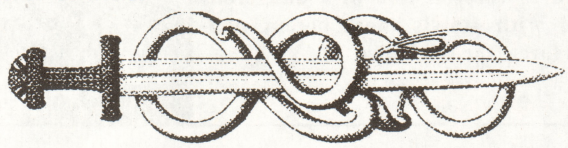
The political establishment did not wait long to silence this noisy NS voice and the forces of Special Branch raided the Princedale Road offices, Mr. Jordan's home in Coventry and the homes of key NSM activists on August 11th 1962. The media lapped up the details of the raids the seized swastika flags, portraits of Adolf Hitler and para-military uniforms.

The culmination of the state's efforts to shut down the NSM was the so-called "Spearhead Trial" at the end of 1962, the bulk of the charges focused on the para-military style of the NSM and the "Spearhead" unit in particular. The charges were brought under the 1936 Public Order Act; Colin Jordan was sentenced to nine months imprisonment, John Tyndall got six months, and two other activists received three months in prison. Despite this pressure, the NSM marched on and continued to stir up confrontations and publicity.

In mid 1964, there was a split in the NSM and John Tyndall left the movement with his closest followers, Colin Jordan retained the leadership and the hard core N.S. membership.

The NSM continued to produce and circulate its propaganda literature, principally stickers, leaflets and the publication "The National Socialist". There were other pitched battles with the organised opponents of both the Communists and Jewish "62 Group". The NSM took an active part in the infamous Leyton by-election of 1965. Coloured immigration into London was a cornerstone of the campaign, there were classic publicity stunts by Mr. Jordan and NSM activists. One dangerous incident took place during the Gordon Walker election campaign. During an election meeting at Leyton Baths, Colin Jordan stood up to heckle the speaker and was set upon by over twenty thugs from the "62 Group" and was badly beaten before the police intervened. There was general disgust at the level of violence aimed at one man, and the incident cost the Labour Party support locally.

By the end of 1966 the NSM was over, the official police record states that at its height, the NSM had less than 200 members. But the deed had been done, the NSM had lived long enough to plant the seeds of reborn National Socialism in British soil, how long it would take for those seeds to sprout shoots, was only a matter of time.



NEWS REVIEW

NEW LIES JUST LIKE OLD LIES.

Time passes but the same old lies persist. The stories here were created by British and American journalists over 50 years ago. The same old lies are still repeated today. Anyone who knows the true history of the Third Reich will spot the falsehood straight away - but at the time much of the British public believed every word. Just as the media lies about National Socialism today, and gullible readers believe every word.

What motive lies behind Germany's new negotiations with Stalin?

Certainly not brotherly love, or Hitler's desire to share his Polish plunder, but the hard realisation that while he has a war on his hands in the West, he would never alone be able to subdue millions of seething Poles, Czechs, Slovaks and Austrians.

And he wanted someone to help him wield the Peace Whip against Britain and France.

The above article was taken from the News Review News Quiz October 5, 1939. All quiz articles were of anti-German propaganda.

Mussolini-Jew hater

Why has Mussolini discovered an artificial race problem in Italy, which for years has boasted that it has no race problem at all?

Close watchers of Italy's progress declare that there were two compelling reasons. One was the need to forge still closer bonds between Berlin and Rome, and ensure a tighter alliance in future. The second was the economic crisis in Italy itself which forced Il Duce to find, and find quickly, some convenient scapegoat for his own economic failures.

For Italy "racialism" is an impossible philosophy. There, more than anywhere in Europe, "Aryan" ideas have been heaped with ribald ridicule. Italians were encouraged to scoff publicly at notions of racial superiority.

Reason for this early attitude was that Il Duce's Fascism centred around the idea of rebuilding the Roman Empire. That meant conquest and assimilation of alien people. For Germany, striving first to unite all the Teutonic peoples, racialism was the important concept, but in Italy it meant nothing.

Its adoption now may mean that Mussolini is contented to become the vassal of Berlin, even if doing so should involve the repudiation of his earlier ideas, and threaten to embroil him in a dangerous quarrel with Italy's most potent non-Fascist force, the Catholics.

Hitler's Turn to Worry

To British citizens who have succumbed to high blood pressure during the past few days because of German-Italian threats against the Democracies, a sight of some of the information reaching Whitehall from confidential sources would act as an immediate sedative.

Adolf Hitler is intent on humiliating the British Government in the eyes of the world, yet Neville Chamberlian is not without a plan of his own.

Set as he is on peace, the Premier is not fool enough to believe that Britain's future role in world affairs is to go cap in hand to the Dictator States begging them to avert war, and offering them bribes to that end.

Already British rearmament is drawing out of the muddle in which the Czech crisis found it last September. Hitler's military advisers are growing increasingly anxious about it.

Hitler himself knows that if he is to complete the aspirations outlined in Mein Kampf, his political testament, he must hurry before Britain grows strong enough to resist him openly.

Thus Mr. Chamberlain's whole policy is aimed at sealing the frontiers of Western Europe while France and Britain push on with their defences, and blocking a southward thrust by Nazism through the Balkans.

If that can be done, Hitler will find his easiest route of expansion in the east - through Ruthenia towards the Soviet Ukraine. And the sooner the Reich butts its head against the USSR, the better for the future of Europe, thinks the Premier.

1938 News Review: If Germany had won the war-great intellectuals would be exiled and Teutonic culture Aryanised.

Hitler's Revolver

CORNERED and desperate, Hitler is now fighting on two fronts - along the Siegfried Zone and inside Nazidom itself.

Many of his lieutenants view the Fuehrer's "sale" of the Baltic and the Balkans to Josef Stalin as an act of betrayal.

They are dismayed, angry.

Deputy Fuerhrer Hess has been loyally trying to silence Nazi outbursts.

He told foreign newspapers in Berlin the other day (in confidence) that Hitler now sees the world through Red-tinted spectacles.

"After all." said Hess, "wasn't the Fuerhrer the seventh member of the German Workers' Party, founded by Drexier and Harrer? He used the big steel interests to rebuild the Party, but now they have fallen into decay, and the Fuehrer is once again a good Socialist."

Added Nazi No, 3: "Hitler says he would sooner see Germany a Union of Soviets on Russian lines than surrender to the Democracies"!

This defeatism is a new streak in the All Highest's character.

It is showing in other ways, too. Adolf the Fearless can now be seen any day wearing a revolver in his holster He fears assassination. (see picture).

Feuhrer and Revolver:
Hitler and General Keitel inspecting a shot up Polish armoured train on the battle front.

Opposite is an article from News Review October 12, 1939. Anti-German humour was perfect propaganda for the media.

The article and picture caption (Hitler's Revolver published Oct. 1939) is evidence that the British media were capable of incredulous propaganda.

It was not just the British media who had the audacity to fabricate.

Hitler's Plans.

Definite arrangements have been made for Nazifying Poland, states the Sunday Dispatch. Half of the territory west of the Nazi-Soviet demarcation line will be completely absorbed into the Reich, the rest remaining as a quasi-Polish state, strictly subjugated like the Czech and Bohemian protectorates.

Under this plan about 4,000 racial Poles will become German subjects, and the districts of Poznan, West Prussia, Upper Silesia, Western Galicia, and Suvalki will be incorporated into the Reich. The vassal Polish State will number about 13,000,000, will not be allowed its own army, and all strategic frontier points will be manned by Nazi troops.

The above article was published in News Review magazine, and was taken from the Sunday Dispatch. A no nonsense article.

The next article was also published in News Review magazine but as one of their own. Notice the difference in Propaganda!

Brain Specialist Listens

While Hitler was making his speech in the Reichstag last week a well known brain specialist in London was listening-in.

After the broadcast he gave it as his opinion that the speaker showed signs of deep-seated mental derangement.

He said that if Orator Hitler had been brought to him as patient, he would have advised his relatives to place him without delay in an institution.

Incredible that the so-called specialist could make a diagnosis after just listening to the radio. Usually such diagnosis can only be made after weeks of careful observations.

The following article was published in The Evening News, London, April 16 1945. Because of the amount of news coming in each day, six two page editions were released in a day in which the basic news remained the same in each edition and the more important updated news replaced the earlier updated articles.

1940 Secrets: Search for Hidden Arsenals

BRITISH GUERILLAS HAD SECRET ARMS DUMPS

Close Liaison with Army Planned

By DONALD GOULD, "Evening News" Reporter

An underground army of British guerillas would have been mobilised within 24 hours of any German invasion of this country. It would have been supplied with arms from secret arsenals and led by army officers who were ready to reveal themselves.

These British guerillas would have fought with the Regular troops, in co-operation with the "underground" Secret Service agents whose existence I revealed in Friday's Evening News.

A skeleton force of trusted civilians was formed and their duty was to mobilise everybody in their district who could fire a weapon against the enemy or was fit enough to do any job.

Killed

Although weapons and amminitions were in short supply after Dunkirk available stores were hidden away at key points. They included rifles, shot-guns and a certain quantity of field artillery -3.7 inch guns - and it was left to the leaders to spread these stores over the countryside.

No details were ever committed to paper, and because of that some of the "dumps" have never been found. The men who knew the secret have been killed in action or died since.

Search is still going on for them including an arsenal hidden away among the mountains by a father and his two sons who were killed together by enemy action.

Because it was never called upon the British underground army has always been steeped in mystery, but I understand that it would have been more highly organised and in closer liaison with the Army than any of the resistance movements which did such fine work in the occupied countries.

In the London telephone directory were discovered the names Goerings, Goebbles and Hess. Goering was unable to get home from Brussels when war started, Goebbles ("Don't call me that!") has now changed his name, and Hess is a benign, white-haired little business man who would like "a chance to deal with those Nazi rascals."

A REVIEW OF TOPICAL NEWS STORIES

FAREWELL! GOODBYE!

Nazi clean-out of "Brown Spots" make way for Holocaust memorial!

The Austrian town of Wels, upper Austria, is in the midst of battle charged by the Austrian Young Socialists who are fighting to rid the town of its Nazi past. The town has been classed has a "Brown Spot" because it is littered with Nazi memorials, and the Mayor of Wels, Karl Bregartner, is being forced to alter the hue of the town. He has been given until October to banish offending signs and erect a monument to Holocaust victims regardless of his disapproval and opposition to any alterations.

One of the main changes of request is to the sports hall, Moritz Etzold, named after a Nazi gymnast. It is to be renamed "Sports hall on the [river] Traun", and a plaster Swastika with four "F"s standing for Frisch, Frohlich, Fromm and Frei (Fresh, Joyful, Pious and Free) from the hooks of the Swastika is to be remove. Town officials had previously had the emblem white-washed to try and blend it into the wall.

A street named after Ottaker Kernstock, a catholic priest and a nationalist poet who wrote The Swastika Song, is also to be "de-nazified".

The chairman for the Young Socialists said: "We've fought for over three years for this."

Mayor Bregartner, who has held his post for 15 years said: "As long as there are other Kernstock Streets in other towns, why should Wels have to make changes?"

A monument to the 1,200 Jews who died in Wels is to be erected.

NO CHEAP SEATS!

Fifty five year old Ismail Patel - a University student taking a degree in European Union Studies at the Edge Hill University Collage in Ormskirk, Lancashire - is being honoured with his own 57 seater bus costing £60 a time to take him 80 miles to his college.

A spokesman for the college said: "We agreed to lay on a coach for nine students but the rest all work from home."

The driver of the bus must wait six hours before chauffeuring Mr Patel back home to Blackburn.

BRITAIN A STATE OF MOSLEMS

The Christian Research Association estimate that by the year 2002 the present number of practising Moslems in Britain - approximately 550,000 - will exceed the 854,000 Church of England worshippers.

Churches are declining and Mosques are growing.

CRA chief Peter Brierley said: "The Moslem community is much more aware of its religion and the role that religion plays within the community."

JEWS PORTRAY MOSLEY

Laurence Marks and Maurice Gran, the duo comedy writers of two top sitcoms - Birds of a Feather and Goodnight Sweetheart - have for ten years been planning the portrait of Sir Oswald Mosley. They have tackled the life of Mosley for an innovative drama presently in production for Channel 4. "It is a serious historical drama with contemporary resonance," said Gran. The duo consider the portrait an important subject of an anti-Semitic Mosley and his Black-Shirts and a subject that should be covered by Jewish writers.

Midnight Rampage: April 97

An estimated 60 Sikhs rampaged through the Chalvey area of Slough, a Muslim stronghold, attacking shops and damaging cars. Thames Valley Police said it was part of an on-going feud. Police quelled the incident and no arrests were made.

THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST PRESS. U.K.

The British National Socialist Movement is working towards the creation of an independent printing works and National Socialist press in the British Isles.

The regular news media of television, radio and national newspapers can never be relied upon to give a fair and representative portrayal of National Socialism. Nor will the media ever give a National Socialist perspective to news stories, so as a Movement we must create our own alternative media.

The spreading of National Socialist messages and the production of National Socialist literature is generally hampered by the lack of a central printing facility, production studio and design workshop.

The British Movement intends to change this situation and has set up an appeal to raise the necessary funds. Target figures have been set and fund raising is underway.

OUR READERS SAY

As far as the publication is concerned I thought that it might be a useful idea, certainly as distribution grows, to have some more constructive feedback from the readers and to get them more involved whilst at the same time forcing them to take stock of what is going on around them at a personal level.

I think that three regular features could be incorporated. Firstly a youth page where under 18's can express their views and comments on Britain today, what future it holds for them and how they would like to see it changed. Secondly a page for our senior citizens where they can comment on how Britain has deteriorated in their time and how much better it was in the days before racial integration. Together these two features can show that there is no divide between old and young in Britain when it comes to the fundamentals of Britain for the British. It will help to sweep away some common misconceptions held by both groups about each other and show that unification of all is possible due to unification of thought. Finally I had pondered on introducing a what's happening column whereby people can write in giving true accounts of how their lives have been damaged by rules such as positive discrimination or how property they have has been devalued by the infiltration of Asian communities within their own etc.

Very impressed with Broadsword No 10.

As you mentioned the Internet, I had no difficulty in composing the enclosed poem. Feel free to print it. I kept it deliberately short.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Broadsword,

On reading the front page of the latest BM members bulletin, I felt compelled to write to you and hopefully give you some insight of how deep the Security Services will go.

When I was in the Army, I tried to contact the BNP, but I know that my letter never got there. How do I know that? Because the Military Police showed me my letter and I got seven days detention for getting involved in a party the Army didn't want its soldiers to contact. When they showed me my letter, they told me how they knew what was in it; all they did was use a metal coat hanger put into the top of the envelope and rolled the letter around the hanger, withdrew the letter, and photo-copy or retain the letter, as in my case.

One way to counter this is to seal both ends of the envelope with cellotape, with your initials signed underneath. But these days we have heard about a spray the Post Office security people use to make the envelope "see-through". I believe that using foil to cover your letter, with shiny face outwards can stop this, including X-Ray machines.

National Socialist Regards,

To all Readers.

If there are any readers out there who know of anywhere where I can get decent 'White' books for my kids please contact Broadsword.

I have two boys: One who is three and a half years old, and the other, who is two years old. I am fed up of all these multi-racial books coming into our book shops and corrupting our children's minds.

White Power, Racial Regards, Jackie.

Broadsword Says: Check out second hand book shops and car-boot sales for traditional children's books. Also our own sales service hopes to be able to offer pro-White children's books sometime in the future.

FREEDOM THROUGH THE INTERNET

Tyrants and gurus and mattoids hate Internet.
It upsets their schedule, that pampered Jetset.
Overpaid EU gurus get very annoyed
when dissidents question (like Sigmund Freud).
Lies upon lies have been heaped upon us,
to carry them all one needs double-Decker bus.
But making it all easy via Bill Gates Micro-Soft chip, disseminating factual history is now just a snip
Electron wizard Bill Gates is now known world-wide, so use his toys and generate sparks of white-pride...

BLOOD AND SOIL

No matter how much the soil, for example, is able to influence the people, the result will always be a different one, according to the race under consideration. The scanty fertility of a living space may instigate one race towards the highest achievements, while with another race this may only become the cause for the dire poverty and ultimate malnutrition with all its consequences. The inner disposition of the Folk is always decisive for the way in which outward influences work themselves out. What leads one Folk to starvation, trains the other for hard work.

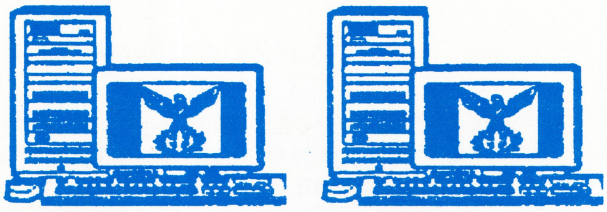
BRITISH MOVEMENT ON THE INTERNET

THE INTERNET



DESPITE ALL THE INTERFERENCE AND ALL THE PRESSURE, OUR MESSAGE IS STILL GOING OUT!

In line with our policy of using all methods of advancing the message of revived National Socialism, British Movement has now launched its message on the Internet. This means that tens of millions of people around the world can now read about our ideology and policies.

Never before have we had this ability or this immediate access to such a large audience.

The "Establishment" are terrified of the 'Net' as it is impossible to censor.

Your support has made this possible, with your continued support we cannot only increase the size of our site but increase the number of our work-stations. We can be reached at:
